

Topic:

What evidence might a student produce to demonstrate their understanding of the core ideas, knowledge, and skill of this topic?

1. What specific sources of domain knowledge might students find useful in their investigation?

2. What question would inspire students to think critically about this topic?

7. By what means of publication can you prompt your students to share their work in a public venue?

3. In what ways can a student show critical thinking about this topic?

6. By what activity can you guide the students to deepen their understanding through revision of their work?

4. How might you motivate students to encapsulate and defend their critical ideas in an original product?

5. How might a student present their work?

